

Presentation of cases at Masterclass

All personally identifiable data must be omitted, and the Data Protection Regulation further points out that a combination of personal characteristics may be personally identifiable. Therefore, names, dates of birth, addresses, exact heights and weights or rare diseases are not desired in the virtual forum.

An accurate plan or definition of issues does not necessarily have to be well-defined, but perhaps simply as a starting point for the review. There may be other information that may prove to be important, but it can usually just be integrated into the review.

Sex:

Age:

BMI:

Previous development:

Social:

Challenges, if any. other diseases:

Problem statement:

Plan: